The kicking of the mules in Ohio to-night, can almost be heard in Wisconsin.

Hope for the republicans fills the air in Ohio, and gloom fills the minds of the democrats.

Mr. Pratt doesn't seem to be running in this campaign unless it is in the direction of the woods.

When Tilden's barrel and Tilden's voice are not in the campaign the democratic heart grows faint.

New York will whip it up for Cleveland just about the same manner Tilden praised him in his letter.

Francis Murphy the greatest apostle of temperance in this country, has come out squarely for Blaine.

It will take something longer than Gabriel's tramp to wake up Tilden to the appeals of the democrats.

The republican majority in Ohio will not be less than 15,000, and the republicans wouldn't be much surprised to see it go on over 20,000.

The sales of the public lands for the past year reached the enormous amount of 27,331,000 acres, an increase of over 8,000,000 above the previous year.

In answer to a correspondent who asks only express our opinion that (Waterson, when he wrote of the Star-eyed Goddess of Reform, did not mean the Widow Butler.

Handbills still boasts that there are $400,000,000 of a surplus in the treasury under republican rule. Well, this is much better than a surplus of only 15 cents under democratic rule.

If Cleveland will hang the democratic party as neatly and expeditiously as he did Gaffney and Morrissey, he will cover up a multitude of sins. That is what needs to be covered up in his case.

The democratic candidate for vice president, who called Abraham Lincoln a "smutty old tyrant," is boasting the Indiana soldiers to vote for him. But the Indiana republicans have concluded to do away with Handbills this year.

They tell a joke on Ben Butler to the effect that when he was addressing an audience out in Michigan the other day, he winked at a man with his cross-cut eye and beckoned him to come up to the platform. Seventeen men arose and started forward.

In accepting a re-nomination for congress, Mr. Eaton, of Connecticut, a staunch democrat, but an honest man, said that he knew Mr. Blaine and that he was not going to throw mud at him, on that occasion or anywhere else. Mr. Eaton has sound sense not only in regard to Mr. Blaine but in regard to the tariff. One of the best protection speeches made in the House last winter was made by Mr. Eaton.

George William Curtis is too monumentally ambitious. He lives in the city of New York, where democratic ascendancy for half a century, more or less, has produced a state of moral and political depravity unknown in any other part of our country. Instead of applying his reform knife to the removal of abuses there he commences his alleged purifying processes with the national government, that is, he begins at the top and tries to work down. There is ample scope for his labors in his own "pent up Union" for the remainder of his natural life.

A report comes from New York that the prohibitionists of that state are urging St. John to withdraw from the prohibition ticket. The appeal is made to him on behalf of the temperance cause, the argument being used that his candidacy is hurtful instead of being helpful to temperance. The report says that Mr. St. John is taking the matter under prayerful consideration, and that he will probably withdraw. If he does withdraw he will be a wiser man than many supposed. He is a man of morbid ambition and hence his candidacy for the presidency on the prohibition ticket.

Mr. Hendricks continues to clamor for a change in the government, on the ground that after one party has controlled the offices for more than twenty years, it is time that the other party has the opportunity to look over the affairs and count the money. It should not be forgotten that in the last two years the democracy has been in the majority in the house of representatives—as it now has—and that this body has charge of the funds of the country. It has full power to enable any examination at any time, and if any accounts have not been credited or any money not counted—that party is alone to blame for the delinquency.

It is to be hoped that hereafter the state election in Ohio will take place on the same date as the presidential election. There are many excellent reasons, but not among the least will be the securing of honest voting, in the state, at ter the democracy stained its power they blotted out the registry law, a law which is regarded in all honest and intelligent communities as a shield and safeguard against frauds at the ballot box. Hence Ohio is now inundated with rogues and thugs, with hordes from the penitentiaries of Baltimore, New York, St. Louis, and Chicago, who have come by tens by hundreds and by thousands, to commit a crime which is treason against the commonwealth. If Ohio will join with its sister states, it will not only escape the danger of this great outrage, but it will escape that other sudden evil—being the tramping ground of vast political armies for several weeks before the election are thus alluded.

The independent papers that support Cleveland are publishing the aggregate circulation of the New York newspapers that supported Garfield four years ago, but now support the democratic nominee, and here is the list:

Daily Times.....	50,000
Herald and Telegram.....	100,000
Pack.....	15,000
Herald's Weekly.....	125,000
Evening Post.....	20,000
Brooklyn Union.....	15,000
Total.....	405,000

The Herald is a democratic paper, and during the past twenty-four years has not supported a single candidate that has been elected. This campaign in New York will test the influence of the independent press. In the very face of its 405,000 circulation in New York city, Blaine will carry the state and carry the election.

A PROUD RECORD.

One of the best arguments in favor of republican rule and of the American system of protection, are the following comparative figures which everybody should read, and reading, should thoroughly remember:

1789-1861.	1861-1884.
There were 4,000,000 slaves.	Every slave has been freed.
The fugitive slave law was in full force.	The negro has an equal right with the white man to cast a ballot.
Eleven states, with a population of 11,000,000 were in open rebellion.	The rebellion has been quelled and the Union is intact.
Because of the rebellion the currency of this government depreciated to 28 cents on the dollar.	An equal dollar of the currency is worth one dollar in gold.
In 1861 the national debt was $128,225,150.	In 1884 the national debt was $41,000,000—an increase of 31 percent.
The value in 1880 of all property in the United States was $14,000,000,000.	In 1880 there were over 120,000 miles of railroad.
The 1880 foreign trade aggregated $1,850,000,000.	All exports from the United States from 1880 to 1883 aggregated over $2,000,000,000.
In 1880 there were 21,000 miles of railroad.	For 1880 our foreign trade aggregated over $2,000,000,000.
All the exports from the United States, previous to 1880, aggregated less than $200,000,000.	In 1880 there were in the United States 53,852 manufacturing establishments, in wages $47,628,763, the products being valued at $53,937,101.
In 1880 there were 140,000 acres of marshes, paying in wages $78,378,000, the products being valued at $1,835,801,775.	In 1880 there were 140,000 acres of marshes, paying in wages $78,378,000, the products being valued at $1,835,801,775.
Increase of population, 60 percent.	In 1880 there were 140,000 acres of marshes, paying in wages $78,378,000, the products being valued at $1,835,801,775.

It is hard for the democratic party of true trade, and the party for plunder and spoils, to blindfold the people as to the spinning record made by the republican party in twenty-four years.

A PRACTICAL RESULT.

One matter seems to have occupied the attention of newspapers and orators the far in the campaign. It is this, that no accusations or insinuations are made that the national administration is compelling employees to contribute to the republican campaign fund. In every presidential campaign since the time of Jackson it has always been a sacred custom to receive from those who labor in any department of the government, from the highest secretaries down to the humblest scullions, such sums as they were taxed for campaign purposes. This custom is a twin to that other theory which is one of the revered planks in the platform of democratic history, that the victor is entitled to that which can be begrudged as the result of success. These principles grew and prospered with democratic supremacy, and when the republican party assumed the control of the government, they were recognized as essential elements of the policy of all parties.

But with the settlements of the great questions of state rights and slavery and the adjustment of great financial and social matters, the republican party turned its attention to the reform of abuses, which had their origin and development under the administration of its political adversaries; and the civil service rules became a few years ago an evidence of the earnestness of the reform. The reports which are now frequently read that the republican managers find difficulty in securing funds, and that the thousands of clerks employed in the various departments are not contributing with that generosity and adversity which is usual, illustrate in a remarkable manner, the thoroughness with which the new regulations are applied, and there even seems to be much doubt as to whether the present administration is making such efforts as would be reasonable under the present laws for the success of the republican candidates. At least there is a total absence of all scandal—all accusations of official interference—all charges of misconduct in the way of political action—regarding the position and management of the administration now in power.

It should be borne in mind that such an event has not happened before for a generation. It shows that the efforts for official reform are not a spasmodic and evanescent attempt—not a sudden and temporary effort for political effect, but a deep and abiding resolve to accomplish permanent and beneficial results. What could be hoped for from the democratic party in this respect? Where in the history of national politics has it ever striven to purify the civil service? In what city, or in what county or in what state has it shown any zeal to bring about a reform of any kind? Its claims in that direction are merely sounding brass—they are only noisy assumptions of a virtue which they do not preserve and have no intentions of enforcing.

There are many persons who have a conscientious desire to see the business of the national government conducted on the same principles on which a thrifty private business is conducted. The history, traditions and practices and elements of the democratic party forbid the expectation of having any such desires realized by placing that party in control of the government.

Remember the date of Burr Robbins' show is October 15th.

BRITISH POLITICS.
The Birmingham Liberals Give It a Lively Turn.
Conservative Meetings Mobbed and Broken Up—Protestantism—Almond—Byrd Warriors—The Tip the French.

London, Oct. 13.—Sir Stafford Northcote and Lord Randolph Churchill were announced to speak at a large Conservative meeting in the Aston grounds at Birmingham Monday night. A counter demonstration, gotten up by the Liberals, was held in the same vicinity. After some pretty violent speeches had been made at the latter meeting, the press and the house of commons, the crowd became boisterous, and breaking down the walls around the Aston grounds, they set off the fireworks prepared for the Conservative meeting. They then invaded the Aston grounds, and the Hon. Edward Gibson, M. P. for Dublin university, was speaking. The mob started the platform, and a fierce hand-to-hand fight ensued between the intruders and the Conservatives, during which chairs and benches were used as weapons. The mob then moved on, precipitating the combatants in a mass to the floor, several being injured. The mob then turned its attention to the larger hall, where similar scenes were enacted. Lord Northcote and Lord Churchill were howled down, and finding it impossible to restore order they hastily quitted the hall. Many Conservatives and Liberals were injured in the numerous brawls that took place. The police could succeed in clearing the premises.

London, Oct. 14.—The morning papers contain columns of descriptions of the scenes at the Birmingham riot Monday night. Referring to the rioters, the Telegraph says the mob of Birmingham have disgraced themselves. They have repaid their opponents by brutality, not by reason. Even the ordinary British spirit of fairness was wanting. The Conservatives were simply abused. The Daily News says: "Every one must regret the event. We are not surprised that such things should grow out of the existing state of affairs; still we sincerely deplore the unbecoming exhibition of violence and cannot defend the people of Birmingham."

The Standard sneers with contempt at the idea that the riot at Birmingham has any political significance. It declines to believe that it was more than a prearranged affair. The Standard records with regret such a serious and unprovoked attempt to abridge the right of meeting for public discussion—a right always held sacred in England. It considers the event a disgrace to English politics.

At Sea Took a Hand.
Amoy, Oct. 14.—The French defeat at Tientsin is confirmed. Their forces were outnumbered. The troops landed at 10 o'clock on Wednesday morning, and were obliged to retire to the ships at 8 p. m., after being terribly handled. Their loss was several killed and wounded. They also lost one gun. The Chinese lost 200 men.

London, Oct. 14.—The correspondent of The Times telegraphs that the news of the defeat of Admiral Togo and the French fleet at Tientsin is confirmed. The Chinese, by hiding in brushwood, suffered some 600 of the French forces to land and come within easy range of their guns before they appeared. The Chinese then fired on the French, and the attack upon the rear of the French, and the troops became panic-stricken. The Chinese killed seventy men and captured one gun. They also boarded twenty-two French ships, but desisted from the terrible work upon the protest of the British consul. The Chinese lost 100 killed and wounded. The fighting lasted five hours, at the end of which time the French retired to their ships.

Terrible Typhoon in Japan.
Yokohama, Sept. 27.—On Sept. 15 Yokohama and Tokyo were visited by a terrible typhoon. In the latter city 5,000 houses were wholly or partially destroyed. Twenty people were killed. The loss of life at sea was appalling. No estimate could be made of the number. The typhoon was followed by another of great force on the 17th, but of brief duration.

The Cholera.
Naples, Oct. 14.—There were ninety-three new cases of cholera here and thirty-one deaths during the twenty-four hours ended with Monday.

Capture of a Cleveland Confiscator.
Cleveland, Oct. 14.—The police arrested one of the fire-bugs who made Cleveland such a warm place two weeks ago. Between 4 and 5 o'clock last Friday afternoon Henry Hoffman, while at the coal yards of Heiler & Co., on Scranton avenue, saw smoke issuing from a loaded car standing on the New York, Pennsylvania & Ohio tracks. He found the car on fire and saw a man running away. Hoffman chased but could not catch the fellow. The fire was soon extinguished and Hoffman reported the occurrence to the police. Saturday morning detectives were detailed to investigate the matter, and on the description of the man Hoffman had seen running from the car they on Monday morning arrested Henry Mack on the charge of arson. Mack, who is sometimes called "Charley," is the stepson of Charles Jones who lives near the lumber-yard of Monroe Brothers & Co., by whom the latter is employed as a workman. Mack said that he knew about the fire because he had insisted that he had nothing to do with the setting of them. When questioned about the coal car, he at first denied a denial, but when pressed he said: "Well, to make a long story short, I did that, but I can't tell you how I set the fire. I was in the car, and putting that in the car, I set fire to it." Mack is only 17 years old, and of all appearance a very intelligent lad.

Loss by Fire.
Petersburg, Va., Oct. 14.—C. A. Jackson & Co.'s tobacco factory took fire Monday night, and owing to the inability of the fire department to procure water—the result of the drought—was totally destroyed. All the machinery and stock and several adjoining frame buildings were also burned. Loss on factory about $30,000; insurance, $100,000. Origin supposed to have been spontaneous combustion.

The Quebec Explosion.
Montreal, Oct. 14.—Nothing definite has been discovered as to the preparation of the explosion in the parliament buildings at Quebec, but suspicious are strengthening that the work was done by some of the employees of Charbonnet, the contractor, in revenge for having to see him for wages they allege are due them.

THE COLLIER'S TORCH.
Believed to Have Been at Work in the Hocking Valley.
Seven Coal Mines Burning with No Immediate Prospect of Quenching Them—Spirit of the Strikers—Quiet, but Excited.

Corvallis, Ohio, Oct. 14.—The Columbus and Hocking Coal and Iron company offers a reward of $500 for the arrest and conviction of the incendiaries who set fire to their mines Sunday. They claim that the work was done by the strikers, and the strikers declare the syndicate did it.

All of the mines now on fire are not operated, but when they are at work they employ 2,000 men. Representatives of the syndicate were at Corvallis Hill on Monday to see what could be done in the way of putting out the fire, and they were received with jeers and called all manner of names, which instances of the spirit which prevails on the part of the company element. A number of detectives were taken along to guard some Italians, who it was expected to put in to work against the fire. There is no doubt, had it not been for the presence of the detectives, that the strikers would have been trouble between the strikers and the Italians. Fire-engines have been secured from Columbus and are now at work on the fire in the mines at New Straitsville, but it is with little effect in the way of putting them out.

New Lexington, Ohio, Oct. 14.—The worst feature of the strike in the Hocking valley is the black, curling columns of smoke and the lurid flames that issue from four of the mines at New Straitsville, one at Shawnee, one at Corvallis, and one at Sand Run. The fire at one mine at New Straitsville is reported to be raging so furiously that the flames through an air-shaft in the top of the hill ascend to the height of fifty feet. The theory is that the coal dust was kindled down in jumps, placed in piles, then saturated with coal-oil and the torch applied. The various entries, rooms and air-shafts in these great underground mines are burning, and of considerable power, which of course becomes greatly increased and intensified after the passages become heated and the flames begin to ascend. Quenching these underground fires is a task of considerable difficulty. Efforts were made to fight the fire in some of the mines, but the most strenuous exertions resulted in no perceptible success, and at one of the mines, at least, the main underground air-shaft was all closed tightly with the hope of either smothering the flames or so decreasing their volume and force as to render the fire manageable at a later period. At New Straitsville where four mines are burning, the syndicate has ordered mining, altogether, abandoned their work, and taken everything movable to other parts in the mining district. But when the news spread that the strikers were on fire a train loaded with miners from other parts, accompanied with a force of Pinkerton guards, was run to New Straitsville, and an attempt was made to extinguish the fire. This train pulled into the town all those ahead of it were hissed and jeered by a portion of the residents, though it was believed that the great majority of the population were as well as other citizens, disappointed at the burning of property, homes or mines, and approved that the result of it will be an injury to the cause of the workmen, as well as property owners in the place and vicinity. It is estimated that the four mines now on fire are capable of a daily output of 300 cars, and represent the labor of from 2,000 to 3,000 miners. These fires are in the heart of the very best coal region in the country, and while the coal is not a serious loss, as well to operators as miners, the threatened destruction of the mineral wealth contained in them must be regarded as no less than a great public calamity. Many of the striking miners, and the Pinkerton police are on the verge of terms, and charges and counter charges are freely made. The military was sent into the Hocking valley in response to the call of the proper officers, and the strikers are so far from being called for troops, on the ground that there has been no public outrage or riotous proceedings, and that such illegal acts as have been committed are not of such a nature as to be forced upon the military force. What the action of the governor of the state and the sheriff of the county may be as a consequence of the fire now raging is not at present known, and cannot be conjectured. It all appears quiet on the surface now, but the mine fires are still burning and smoldering, while an effort is being made to smother them out, which cannot have any immediate success.

SOMETHING NEW IN CRIME.
Several Elizaville, Miss., People Wanted by Judge Lynch.
New Orleans, La., Oct. 14.—A double tragedy, original in its nature, occurred at Elizaville, Miss., forty miles from here, Monday. Deputy Sheriff Robert T. Snipes, Jacob George (a telegraph operator), and two or three others broke into the county jail and offered a negro prisoner his liberty on condition that he would kill Dr. Submaster, a druggist. The negro agreed to the terms, and calling the doctor out shot him, inflicting a fatal wound. The doctor was very indignant, and the investigators of the crime, in order to move the witness and work upon the feelings of the people, organized a mob who fired a volley into the negro, fatally wounding him. Before death he made a full confession. Snipes, who at this time happened to be in the city, the police have been furnished descriptions of the fugitives and may effect their capture. Should any be related to Elizaville, the same mob that shot the negro is preparing to receive them.

Double Murder in Missouri.
MANUAL, Mo., Oct. 14.—About 10 o'clock Monday afternoon the bodies of John Lowry, 22 years old, and his wife, 22 years old, were found lying on the ground near their residence, six miles west of this city. They were probably murdered last Saturday night. Lowry was lying on his face with a bullet in the back of his head, which was probably cut with an ax, and Mrs. Lowry was lying on her back with the side of her head cut open. Circumstances tend to prove that she was outraged and then killed. There is no clue to the murderers.

Heavy Blow in Maine.
Lewiston, Me., Oct. 14.—During a heavy gale and shower Monday morning the Fisher mill at Sabattus was unroofed and many buildings blown off. A pine grove near Barker mill was half blown down.

—The convention of farmers of the third assembly district of this county, was held at the court house this afternoon, and was very largely attended. There was but one voice, and that was for J. C. Bartholomew, the republican nominee for the assembly. The interest of the hour, prevents us publishing the proceedings this afternoon. The full report of the convention will be published in the Gazette to-morrow evening.

Don't forget that Burr Robbins will exhibit in Janesville, Wednesday, October 15th.

The Burr Robbins' show. The Burr Robbins' New Consolidated Railway Show will be in Janesville to-morrow, giving two exhibitions, afternoon and evening. Col. Robbins' show is one of the largest and best in the country, each department being complete in itself, containing some of the rarest specimens of animals, birds, reptiles, and other curiosities, while the circus is unquestionably superior to any of the three or four ring concerns which make their show on the bill boards, and failing to give the people a fair show for the money in their many rings. Col. Robbins has given Janesville several benefits, and now the people should reciprocate, by turning out in good numbers to-morrow afternoon and evening, and give the Colonel a hearty welcome to his winter quarters. The exhibition will be given at the foot of River street, in the fourth ward.

THE GRAND RALLY.

Completing the Arrangements for the Monster Blaine and Logan Rally.

Everything Working Splendidly for an Immense Gathering.

The Work of the Committees. The various committees appointed to arrange details for the monster republican demonstration in this city on Thursday, held a meeting in the Blaine and Logan club rooms last evening. Dr. Henry Palmer was chosen chairman and John C. Spencer secretary.

The finance committee made favorable reports: The committee on music reported the Bower City and Catholic Cornet bands engaged.

Marshall Atwood made a very encouraging report. Nearly all the clubs invited have responded favorably.

Mr. Wilson Lane read a letter from the State Central committee in reference to speakers.

The committee on illumination also reported very encouraging progress. Some sixty business firms have agreed to place transparencies in their respective windows.

The committee adjourned to meet again this evening.

The residents and business men along the line of march have expressed a willingness to illuminate and there will be a general illumination.

Marshall Atwood has received reports from a good many marching clubs, that they will be present in full force.

The parade will be the largest gathering of torch bearers ever seen in the state.

People of sedentary habits, and all who are subject to constipation can keep in good condition, by a moderate use of Ayer's Pills—the safest, easiest, and most reliable cathartic.

Don't Neglect Your Opportunities. The last days of the Milwaukee exposition are at hand, and the opportunity of seeing one of the most attractive exhibitions ever held in the west is rapidly passing away. The exposition of 1881 closes on Saturday night, October 18th.

The superb art gallery, the famous Bradford collection, Norw., the Jeannette survivor, and the Arctic relics, the great panorama painting, the manufacturing machinery, the inventors and the hundreds of other interesting exhibits have attracted and are drawing large crowds, but doubtless some of our readers have not yet visited the exposition, and they should not neglect to go, for the visit will well repay them. The past week has been full of special attractions. Hatcher, the famous court virtuoso, is engaged for October 13th, 14th, and 15th. Other attractions are being arranged for, and the closing scenes of the great exhibition will be full of life and interest.

Play fair and no favor is a principle to which no one can object when he feels assured that the cause for which he battles with the sword of right, and the medicine that presents itself for public recognition should expect to occupy the same ground, and the manufacturers of Athletes should not be more than its merits should have a fair test. Mr. A. J. Angel, of Chester, Va., who had long suffered the torture that only the confirmed rheumatism can fairly appreciate, writes, "The Athletes helped me very much. I send $1.00 for another bottle. I intend to give it to my brother."

Notice. The republican ladies of the city are requested to contribute biscuits or sandwiches for the procession Thursday evening, and are requested to bring all supplies to the Inimitable headquarters on Thursday afternoon, where a committee of gentlemen will receive them, and attend to serving in the evening. Donations of coffee &c. from our business firms will be accepted.

The Fractious Stage. The melancholy days have come. The season of the year.

Passing down Jackson street Monday evening just after dark, we stopped in front of a house to listen to the enlivening strains of music that floated out on the still night air. The production was both vocal and instrumental, and stepping around the corner of the house, our attention was attracted to a lantern, suspended from the limb of a tree, in the back yard, whose flickering light revealed the soloist and the entire orchestra.

The soloist was a man of middle age, with a long, straight nose, and a friendly smile. He was dressed in a long, dark coat, and a white shirt with a high collar. He was holding a long, thin stick in his right hand, and was using it to keep time to the music.

As the curtain went down at the close of the first act, a window was raised at the rear of the house, and a lady's voice was recognized as she said, "Good for you, John, I expected to hear you put in a profane accompaniment every minute try another act, and if you do as well I will let you put up the above every fall."

When the curtain rose on the second act an entire change of scenery was presented. The family were all assembled in the sitting room and by special invitation we occupied a chair in the dress circle. An innocent looking stove surrounded by pipe, elbows, a hammer, and screw driver and various other necessities appeared before the foot-lights. John appeared in the leading role, and it was evident that with the aid of his good wife the company would produce a first class comedy, in a manner creditable to the occasion.

After exercising around the stove to place it in position, and booming a little warmed up with the effort, John mounted a chair, and in a melodious voice said:

"Now, my dear, hand me that blasted pipe."

"Blessed, you mean, John, blessed pipe," his wife replied as she passed him the pipe, which he held up to his mouth and blew a long, low note.

"All right, blessed it is, but I'll be blessed if the blasted thing ain't too small," said John, as he hammered away on the refractory pipe in a vain effort to connect it with the piece below.

"Pound a little more on this side John, you are doing mighty." The instructions were observed but in an unguarded moment the length of pipe slipped out of his hand and landed on the carpet in the middle of the room.

"Oh, you men are so careless, come down and let me try it," and with pipe in hand the wife strode ready to mount the rostrum.

With an impatient "well try it if you want to and capture all the glory there is in the business," John descended and his better half commenced where he had left off.

The pipe continued to flatter itself on its own ability to do the program promised a good deal in the way of length, but right in the midst of the most interesting part, one of the front limbs of the stove suddenly gave out, and without much warning the host producer re-appeared at full length on the floor. This was a little too much for the occupants of the chair, and as we helped her to light, and suggested that it was a nice evening for putting up stoves, she said in a voice that indicated a little irritation, "Young man, how dare you treat me so serious a matter, we shall miss your company but will endeavor to survive the loss."

We took the hint and our host, said, good night, and as we passed out of the club concluded that the melancholy days had indeed come. The man who can succeed, fully put up a stove without indulging in a little profanity, only lacks wings to transmute him into a seraph.

Emerald Grove.

—Rev. J. B. Baedle, the appointee of conference to the M. E. church here, occupied the Methodist pulpit last Sabbath and preached to the satisfaction of his hearers.

—Rev. L. S. Odgers goes to Hebron and Troy in Jefferson county, and is now making arrangements for removal. Mr. Odgers and wife will leave with them the best wishes of their many friends for their success and prosperity in their new field of labor.

The Sunday school concert at the Congregational church last Sunday evening passed off very well. The effort was crowned with very interesting results. Mr. W. D. McGrover who had the honor in charge is entitled to much credit for arranging and carrying out the program so successfully.

—Rev. D. B. Jackson was summoned on Monday to attend the funeral of Miss Clara B. Cheever, of La. Prairie.

—Wm. Wright returned on Saturday from Colorado to winter here as usual.

—Messrs. Cory of Milton and Craghorn, of Oshkosh, discussed prohibition and St. John's, speaking of the M. E. church on Saturday night. There was a good attendance and the speakers spoke forcibly and to the point.

—W. D. Hastings is in Chicago buying goods.

"A God-Send." The children of Israel were once fed by manna, sent from Heaven. This was an undoubted case of "God-send." The amelioration of human ills and ailments has been often undertaken, and as often failed. The remedy of the night, they have been weighed in the balance and not found wanting. It is a sovereign, speedy, certain and pleasant cure for Catarrh and Cold in the Head. Thousands of persons have attested this fact. "Ely's Cream Balm is a God-send," wrote Mrs. M. A. Jackson, of Portsmouth, N. H., on May 22d, 1882. "I had Catarrh for three years; it tried nearly all remedies, but to no purpose. Two or three times a week my nose would bleed freely, and I thought the sores in it would never heal. Your Balm has cured me." This preparation is not a liquid or a snuff, and is easily applied. Can you, reader, afford to experiment with injurious snuffs and injections when a pleasant and certain cure is at hand?

The Corner Grocery.

Dan Sully, the Irish comedian, and his "Corner Grocery" company will be at the opera house on Friday evening of this week. The New York Daily News, of June 11th, says:—

"If a house packed to the doors and an audience kept laughing every half minute during the progress of a long and tedious comedy, it is a long time, then Mr. Dan Sully, the Irish comedian, as Michael Nolan, in the Corner Grocery; or, the Bad Forgetful Boy, has come to Tony Pastor's theatre to stay. There is a story the players string up which is to bring the comical doings of the comedians, and to give the Bad Boy a chance to perpetrate his never-ending, and amusing devilities. While in rapid succession such scenes are enacted as would do credit to the comic and burlesque skill of the Flanagan Brothers, there are touches of very clever comedy acting within, even as it relieves the rougher portion of the work, such as the audience shouting with laughter. Mr. Dan Sully gives an exceedingly clever impersonation of Michael Nolan, and he looks, acts and talks like the proprietor of a corner grocery, who had a bad boy. He is very droll, and his songs are given with musical rhythm, and a never-ending stream of laughter from his comical doings. The rest of the cast is very good, each and every one helping along the two and a half hours of continuous fun in splendid style."

MITCHELL MEETS HIS MATCH. The English Pugilist Beaten by McCaffrey.

New York, Oct. 14.—There was an immense audience in Madison Square garden Monday night of fully 7,000 people to witness the much talked of sparring match between Charles Mitchell, of England, and Dan McCaffrey, of Pittsburgh. The match was for the entire gate money, four rounds, on terms of Queensbury rules, Mitchell to receive $1,000, win or lose.

After some boxing bouts by some well known pugilists, the exciting training, the scene of the evening came upon the platform. McCaffrey was dressed in salmon colored flannels, and wore a green belt. He was attended by Billy O'Brien and Billy Hamilton. Charles Mitchell was dressed in a white and had for his attendants Billy Madden and James Campbell. J. H. McCormick was appointed referee, while Ed Plummer acted as time-keeper. The gloves used were very much like the ones used in the match.

As soon as they squared off, Mitchell got well on his feet, the two men engaged in a struggle. The two men were both very much alike, and the match was very much like a boxing match. Mitchell was very much like a boxing match, and the match was very much like a boxing match.
